Celebrates Birthday

Mrs. Walter P. Phelps, affectionately known by her large host of friends, young and old, as "Mary Fannie", was the honoree at a birthday luncheon Sunday, June 3rd, at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ty Bollinger.

A bountiful meal was served smorgasbord style to 65 relatives and friends who were invited to enjoy this annual occasion. The Rev. Larry Lawrence, Mrs. Phelps' pastor, was asked to return thanks.

A table centered with a colorful arrangement of garden flowers and laden with delicious food, was at one end of the porte-cochere. Other tables for guests with centered vases of roses, were under the porte-cochere and on the spacious lawn.

In addition to the "money tree" presented Mrs. Phelps, she received many other gifts, among them a watch given by the hostesses.

The hostesses for the party were her three daughters, Mrs. L. E. Anderson, Mrs. Ethel Lee Stanley and Mrs. Bollinger and niece, Shirley Mae Campbell.

community; assisting in the development of priorities and strategies for meeting the identified needs; and assisting in the dissemination and interpretation to the community of the proposed recommendations of the committee.

Full implementation of mandatory legislation will be expected by the school year of 1976-1977. Therefore, school divisions are submitting a five year plan by July 1, 1973 which shows the orderly development and operation of the special education for each year until full implementation is achieved. In providing for the education of exceptional children, the school divisions are to utilize the regular school facilities and adapt them to the needs of exceptional children. No exceptional children are to be segregated and taught apart from other children until a careful study of the child's needs has been made and evidence obtained which indicates that segregation is absolutely necessary.

Worn Tires Amended to Include Trailers And Semi-Trailers

RICHMOND -- The law prohibiting one or more tires worn below prescribed minimums on a motor vehicle operated on Va. highways has been amended to include trailers and semi-trailers and the amendment is effective June 1, 1973, Colonel H. W. Burgess, Supt. of State Police, advised today.

He said that a law enacted in 1968 prohibited the use of tires on motor vehicles if tread depths are less than two thirty-seconds of an inch when measured in any two adjacent tread grooves at three equally spaced intervals or if tread wear indicators have contact with the pavement at three equally spaced intervals.

The 1973 Legislature amended this law to include trailers and semitrailers.

Colonel Burgess noted that there still seems to be public misunderstanding of the law (46.1-295.3) as reports and queries received indicate some people think tires not meeting standards only prevents a motor vehicle from passing official inspection.

"This is true," Colonel Burgess said, "but also such tires may not be used on a vehicle driven on Virginia highways at any time."

He advised that if there is any doubt at all, the motorist should have the tire checked at once and added that any official inspection station is equipped to make a check.

In closing, Colonel Burgess reminded motorists that the use of studded tires has been illegal in Virginia since April 1 and will not again be permitted until Nov. 1, 1973.

Fashion

Printed cottons and silks are used extensively for pants and long dresses.

Travelers look for packable garments to take with them and find non-wrinkle suits and drip-dry garments a boon on their long trips.

Wrap turbans for summer have become very popular. These come in handy on windy days or evenings at the resorts.
